respondent for an El Paso newspaper, which featured his articles with his picture, has been located, after a mysterious disappearance.

Dinsmore disappeared on May 18, from Artesia, where he was interested in some oil chaims and had been secretary of the commercial club. He drove off in a Ford car, estensibly to visit some oil claims. Mrs. Dinsmore effered a $100 reward for his discovery and the peace officers searched without avail until the present week.

Now the news comes that Dinsmore is back at his oid home in Keepe. Texas, employed as a salesman; that he has the same Ford car that be left the Pecos valley in and is going under his right name.

The Mrs. Dinsmore known in El Paso, but decilines to discuss the affair except to may that she is going home to her mother in Wisconsin.

Dinsmore is well known among mining people of El Paso and the southwest as a man of small stature, who were glasses, a rather heavy mustache, and remerally a light suit of clothes. He traveled much in the Mexican action of the southwest and affected the Mexican dandy's summer appared when at leisure.

At the time of the formation of a commercial secretaries and newspaper association at Pacos a rouple of years age, Dinamore was elected a vice president. It was at such meetings that Dinsmore was always conspictions.
